Our most respectful class

this week is Year 2.

Well done.

NSPCC

With two weeks of the half term having gone already, time really is flying at the moment. In week 1, we gave our contributions raised for the NSPCC over—many thanks to all those who sponsored this very worthwhile charity. In a couple of weeks they will return again to work specifically with our older children in Years 5 and 6.

Sulgrave Manor

On Monday, Miss Rudgalvis and Dr Hartwright set off first thing with year 5 and 6 to Sulgrave Manor. This was a place we hadn't visited before and so there was much eager anticipation of how it would help support our Tudor learning. The day started with great excitement as the children were all encouraged to transform themselves from Harbury School children into Tudor people—the costumes sounded amazing. They also had the opportunity to play some Tudor games and some of them even had a go at gambling! Later, they were treated to a tour of the house and grounds and it was fascinating to see the difference between how rich and poor folk lived. I think you can see from the pictures on the class page of the website and the quotes how valuable the learning experience was for the classes. Thank you to both staff and to the parents who supported us on the visit.

Remembrance

Because of the way events have fallen this year, we held our 2 minute silence for Remembrance Sunday today. James and William in Year 6 have been doing sterling work selling the British Legion merchandise over the last few days as well. The children also sang ‘Remember’ beautifully. Some classes are also carrying out an accompanied walk around the village with Mr Chapman to look more closely at the blue plaques that were central to the ‘Requiem’ service at All Saints in May.

Parents’ Evenings

We had a really good turn out on both Tuesday and Thursday this week for Parents’ evening. I hope you enjoyed the chance to talk to your child’s class teacher and to see how well their learning is going. I hope you also received the letter this week about next week’s events which are packed with Friendship week, Parliament week as well as our non-uniform day next Friday in aid of Children in Need. (An outfit of odd socks and something with spots and £1 is all that is needed)

Exciting new Science lies ahead

We are very lucky at Harbury Primary School to have a fantastic practical area for the children to use during lessons. This room is going to be transformed into a Science lab so that the children can more readily access hands-on practical science. In the new year we will be re-branding and relaunching the area so please watch this space for exciting developments, opportunities and Science news.
